

The Boy Who Borrowed Tomorrow

Written by Kelly Pasztor ♦ Illustrated by Diana F. Shelton

8 × 10 in • 40 pages • full color

A boy who hates waiting borrows tomorrow from a witch’s time shop, and finds that skipping the slow parts also skips the parts that make things his.

In Hurryville City, nobody hates waiting more than Leo. One press of Wizzle the When-Witch’s Tomorrow Borrower 3000 and ZIPPETY-ZANG! His homework is done, his science project has won, and it’s already his birthday. But the prize feels borrowed, the cake feels hollow, and his trumpet squeaks like a sneeze.

A bouncy, rhyme-rich read-aloud about patience, effort, and the good stuff hiding in the waiting. It’s for every kid who has ever counted the sleeps, and for every grown-up hurrying along beside them.

WHY IT EARNS A PLACE ON THE SHELF

- ♦ Built for read-aloud. Bouncy rhyming verse made for K-2 classrooms and library storytime.
- ♦ Vocabulary back matter. The “Words Worth Borrowing” glossary turns the book’s bigger words into a mini lesson.
- ♦ Ready for SEL lessons. Supports CASEL’s self-management and responsible decision-making competencies.
- ♦ A world kids recognize. Homework, a science fair, birthdays and trumpet practice: the things kids count down to.

HARDCOVER $22.99 ISBN 979-8-9980852-0-8 Case laminate • library edition	PAPERBACK $14.99 ISBN 979-8-9980852-1-5 Full color throughout	EBOOK $7.99 ISBN 979-8-9980852-2-2 Fixed-layout EPUB
---	---	--

Publication	October 2026	LCCN	2026925270
Format	Rhyming picture book, 40 pages	Subjects	Values & Virtues • Stories in Verse • Time Travel • Fantasy & Magic
Trim	8 × 10 in, full-color illustrations	Themes	Patience, effort, slowing down

HOW TO ORDER

Available through Ingram and Ingram Library Services.

School, bulk and signed-copy orders: hello@alchemillapress.com

Hardcover: 40% discount, non-returnable • Paperback: 55% discount, returnable

Alchemilla Press

alchemillapress.com

An imprint of Kelly Pasztor LLC

Verona, Wisconsin